

Second Place in June is a Winner

Proposition 14, passed in 2010, changed the election rules in California. You may have voted for this because you liked the idea of choosing any candidate from any party in the June primary. You probably didn't realize that you might not be able to vote for the candidate you want in November. Only the top two vote getters in June, regardless of party, proceed to the November election.

So if you want to vote for higher wages, health care, and education for all, and against fracking and police violence, you need to vote for Peace and Freedom candidates in June. Whether our candidates come in first or second, there will be a very clear choice for working class people in November.

Yes on Proposition 42

Proposition 42 is a state constitutional amendment to require local government to provide open meetings and public records access. These basic democratic practices are currently state government mandates, which require reimbursement. In the last budget crisis these mandates were suspended, allegedly to allow the state to save the money otherwise spent on reimbursing local governments' costs of following the mandates.

We support Proposition 42. Openness in local governments shouldn't be conditional on state budget deals.

Whether the Democrats or the Republicans have been in charge, the one percent have been getting far wealthier. The top twenty percent have been doing okay. But for the vast majority, the poorer you are, the poorer you get:

Clearly, both “major” parties represent rich people. They institute policies that produce profits for corporations and increase the value of stock portfolios. The rest of us get fewer jobs at lower wages, inadequate health care dictated by insurance companies, and polluted air and water.

We are told that the system is democratic and that the people in charge are managing the economy in a way that benefits everyone. We need to stop believing that and start believing in ourselves.

The Peace and Freedom Party stands for the rights and needs of working class people. We participate in struggles to end U.S. wars against other countries, to protect the environment, and to provide a decent standard of living for everyone. But we know the only way we will really win is to replace the rapacious capitalist system with a sustainable socialist system, owned and democratically run by all.

Capitalism is not a Victimless Crime
